

You want to develop a natural supplement to improve heart health.

- What kind of nutrients/bio-actives might you consider?
- What steps would you take to show efficacy?
- Apart from the biological/clinical analyses what else do you need to consider in the development process?